Do not suffer the hog to be run over and worried by men, boys and dogs, getting his blood and flesh heated, just before killing. I believe that is one cause of meat spoiling. Sometimes we drive a hog or two to a neighber's so as to "kill together," as it is termed making use of the same force, same fire and other fixings; and we have known the hams and they think they can afford to sell very cheap. and shoulders of hogs thus driven to come ask the future patronage of their former customers out a little short before the next summer was and the public generally. McNINCH & SHUMAN.

Let the hogs be killed with as little noise, and worriment, and excitement as possible, A Jerseyman has one man to go into the pen select his victim, and shoot him, or with a broad faced hammer (like a shoe maker's hammer) knock down the hog, when other men come immediately and stick, others drag out, and go to scalding, and so on with a large number of hogs.

Scalding machines have become very common, and are a good institution; but everybody has not got one, and still use tubs. I like the tub, and want nothing better for ordinary times; but I want a rope and tackle, and one or two hands to help work the hog. I would not allow a hog put into water while there is a sign of life in him : but when dead. make an opening to the gambrel strings and hook in, hoist the hog and dip him head and shoulders into the scald ; do not let him remain more than a second or two, lest the hair "sets," hoist him and air him, and if needful, dip him, again and again, till done, then hook into the lower jaw, and scald the hinder parts. I like slow scalds the best, as least likely to "set the hair." While the hind parts are getting scalded, the face may be cleansed. Too little attention is generally GROVESTEEN & EO., given to cleaning the head, as also the fee', leaving them for the women to worry over by the hour in some cold outkitchen. As soon as the hog is hung up and washed off. let the head be taken off and set upon a barrel or block, and regularly shaved and clean-on its side and take off the jowl (or lower jaw) I then saw down across the face, above further trouble with gouging the eyes out of face piece, then, without further separating of the parts, starting between the ears, saw up and downwise, not caring to extend furtherdown the snout than the saw-mark across the face, but clean through at the other end. Now, having done with the ears for handles, I cut them off, then take out the brains for pickling-skin the snout, and take off the flesh for scrapple, and throw the nasal organs them with a hatchet. A small sized hoghook flattened, answers very well for taking of the hoofs and toe nails of a porker, or you may use a pair of pinchers. - German- LOOMSBURG FANCY TRIMMING town Telegraph.

MAKING AND KEEPING MANURE. However much may have been said on Just received a new stock of this subject, it does not seem to have had the desired effect, when we see so many of TON YARNS, CORSETS, those who are considered as our best farmers neglecting to take any steps toward promoting this end; who, instead of devising means for increasing its amount, even suffer a large part of that already obtained to be wasted. Now, I believe that most of those who permit this are entirely ignorant of the great injury they are doing themselves, and there may be a few who, though they have had their attention called to it, yet fail to adopt any means for remedying so great an evil.

I will endeavor to point out a few of the most prominent sources of waste and the means by which they may be obviated.

Which has become so favorably known as a TONIC AND RESTORATIVE. By Physicians and Invalids in all parts of the cour The new preparation, "Sarsaparilla in combina tion with lodder of Lime. presents one of the most prompt alterative agents, in a form capable of exert-and pleasant doses. It is conceded that the altera-tive resolvent, or tonic effects of lodine are exert-ed most decidedly when associated with other alteratives, in combination; and the Sarsaparilla seems to fulfill perfectly all the favorable requisitions. The first effect usually observed when "SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE OF LIME" is taken, is an increase of appetite showing that it has tonic properties of a marked character. Its al-terative effects are manifest in its ready combina tion with the blood and tissues. Pale, scrattleast women and children improve rapidly under its use, and the vital functions assume a finalthy condition. It is admirably adapted to a large number of chro or acute affections peculiar to children. It is suit ed to them both by the mildness and efficiency o aedicinal effect and the pleasant, attractive form of the remedy. It may be given for a long period where constitutional influences are desired, and no repugnance, or disinclinat on to take the syrup, encoutered. In White-Swedings, Hip-Joint Disease, and Distortions of the Spine, it should be given persistently, in moderate doses, until relief is obtained. In the Spring of the Year, and during the Warm Weather, the accumulation of morbid matters in the system seems to become manifest and very troublesome. Lassitude, Headache, Boils, Costiveness, Loss of Appe tite, Pains in the Joints, Indigestion, etc., are very common. Nothing ever devised is better adapted to exterminate or drive off these affections than this new combination of SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE

OF LIME. No preparation like it, or which approximates to it as an Alterative, or Blood Purifier. has ever before been placed within the reach of invalida Indeed, it is an entirely NEW and SCIENTIFIC combina-tion, in no respect resembling anything hitherto em-The opinion of medical men concerning it the de scription of its chemical character, therapsutic val-ue, manner of use, etc., are given in a circular which can be had at the store of any and all fire class Druggists.
